

Cohousing/Community Rendezvous - Searching for the “Right” community

Whether you are starting your exploration into community-living or just trying to find the right one for you, this informative session will help you take a step forward in your journey.

We will provide an overview of several community models – including traditional cohousing, small-style communities (ala Sabin Green), retrofit communities, and senior cohousing.

You can ask questions of professionals who help create communities. And you will have a chance to network with others who are in search of community.

Where:

Daybreak Cohousing Common House

2525 N. Killingsworth St.

(Interstate MAX Killingsworth stop, Killingsworth #72, #35 Greeley two blocks west)

When:

March 13, 2010, 10am - 12noon.

Followed by a bring-your-own brown bag lunch – beverages provided

12:30 p.m. Tour of Daybreak Cohousing.

This community search event is brought to you by:

Terri Huggett is co-founder of Daybreak Cohousing and a principal of CircleWorks, a collaborative assisting community development in all its forms. She is a new member of the Cohousing Association board.

Eli Spevak is President of Orange Splot – specializing in Cohousing Development. Orange Splot has been nationally recognized for the creatively small and uniquely designed communities.

Grace Kim is a co-founding architect of Schemata Workshop Architects based in Seattle, WA. Grace was the architect for Daybreak Cohousing and serves on the national board for the Cohousing Association of the US.